SCHOOL HISTORY

The academic year 1954-1955 marked the birth of Saint Louis University School of Law (then called Saint Louis College of Law) when it was authorized under Temporary Permit No. 365, s. 1954, issued by P.M. Endencia, then Secretary of Education, and recommended by Daniel Salcedo, Assistant Director of Private Schools, to offer the First-Year Law course.

In 1955, the College was authorized to offer the Second-Year law course; and in 1956, the College offered First to Third Year classes. In 1957, the Fourth-Year Law course was offered.
